

Report on the event of special lecture on 08.03.2022 at 2.30 pm in the department of Economics.

Topic of the Special Lecture; Entrepreneurship Development; Concept and Process.

Speaker; Prof Dipankar Karmakar, Assistant Prof. of Commerce.

Date; 08.03.2022

The program starts at 2.30 pm with warm welcome by the teachers of the department of economics and by the students offering flower bouquet . Prof. Aparna Biswas, Associate Prof of Economics, deliver a speech explaining the objective of organising such a program. In her speech she told that students should have knowledge about the process of developing an enterprise as in the present scenario when employment opportunities in the public sector are being decreasing continuously. Then Prof. Dipankar Karmakar started his lecture in a very cordial, friendly manner . He nicely explained the concept of an enterprise and entrepreneur and then analyse how one can develop and enterprise. He also mention what qualities are needed to be a successful entrepreneur. He also gave address of some special entrepreneurship development institutes. Students was very much interested and interactive.

Outcome; Students acquired preliminary knowledge about entrepreneurship development which may motivate at least some students to develop an enterprise. About 95 students attended the lecture.

